FPA in the News

Kiplinger Timely, Trusted Personal Finance Advice and Business Forecasts	Kiplinger's Personal Finance – May, 2013 *To find a certified financial planner in your area, go to the Financial Planning Association or the…*Read full article.
The Washington Post	The Washington Post – March 22,2013 Playing off the excitement of the tournament, the National Endowment for Financial Education and the Financial Planning Association have created an interactive bracket of 32 financial goals that people can use to narrow down the most important money important money issues they want to address. Read full article.
CNNMoney	CNNMoney – January 16, 2013 In any case, you can search for all three types of planners in your area by going to the Find a Planner section of the Financial Planning Association site. Read full article.
The Washington Post	The Washington Post – December 22, 2012 You can find an adviser through the Financial Planning Association (www.fpanet.org). You can search for a planner by city, state, Zip code or specialty. Read full article.
CNBC FIRST IN BUSINESS WORLDWIDE	CNBC – March 30, 2012 A group of over 300 financial advisors and members submitted their rankings through the Financial Planning Association. The FPA provided brackets for participants to rank their financial goals from a lineup of 32 financial planning concepts. Read full article
USA WEEKEND	USA WEEKEND – March 30, 2012 Raise the white flag and ask for help from a friend, your spouse or a financial planner. (Find one at fpanet.org, website of the Financial Planning Association … Read full article.
TIME	TIME – March 15, 2012 If you have to dig deeper, search online for planners in your neighborhood through reputable organizations like the … Financial Planning Association. Read full article

FPA in the News

USA TODAY	USA Today- December 16, 2011 If you need a professional's help, check out … the Financial Planning Association, a trade group for planners who charge fees as well as commissions. Read full article
U.S.News & WORLD REPORT	U.S News & World Report - December 8, 2011 When seeking advice, stick with nonprofit members of … financial planners affiliated with the Financial Planning Association. Read full article
Second Act	SecondAct (Work, Play, Financial Independence after 40) – December 2011 15 Must-visit Money websites: FPANET. This is the Financial Planning Association's website and the first place you should visit if you're looking for a financial advisor in your area. In addition to planner search tools, you can find smart and timely articles about financial planning in uncertain economic times. Read full article
Money	Money Magazine - November 28, 2011 Or you can hire an independent financial pro -- you can get the names of certified financial planners in your area through the Financial Planning Association's Find a Planner tool. Read full article
THE WALL STREET JOURNAL.	The Wall Street Journal- September 16, 2011 To get started, visit FPA's website at FPAnet.org, which offers an array of tools, resources and the opportunity to easily connect with thousands of planners nationwide who are ready to provide competent, objective and ethical advice at the highest level. Read full article
AARP®	AARP – August 2011 A new edition of "A Financial Professional's Guide to Working With Older Clients," published by AARP and the Financial Planning Association®, outlines key issues to consider, questions to ask, and skills to develop in serving this demographic. Read full article
Kiplinger	Kiplinger – 2011 Take our ten-question quiz to determine when it's smart to turn your finances over to a professional. Search for a planner via the Financial Planning Association. Read full article